SECOND DAY'S WORK OF THE AMERI-CAN MEDICAL ASSOCIATION.

Thirty-four Papers Rend, and Numerous Addresses, Reports, and Debutes-Outside Scenes-Ingo at Booth's in the Evening-A Discussion on Patent Medicines in the Navy. A good many more members of the Amer-Ican Medical Association arrived Tuesday night and yesterday morning, and the crowd of physicians in and about Association Hall at the opening of yesterday's session was larger in proportion. There were probably more about the hall than there were inside, for, with the John Gilman Shea, William S. Preston, Edward windows on the Twenty-third street side all Floyd Delancey, George Moore, and Franklin open, little that was spoken from the platform H. Churchill. Mr. Thurlow Weed and Chief

Last evening as many of the delegates with their wives and friends as could squeeze into Booth's Theatre witnessed the performance of 'Otnello,' with Edwin Booth as Iago. The performance was given in honor of the Amer-ican Medical Association, and under the austi-ces of Messrs. Reed & Carrick, Messrs. Seatt & Bowne, and the New York Pharmacal Associ-ation.

SIGNS OF WAR IN THE EAST.

Another Conflict Imminent at Scutari and on the Greek Frontier. LONDON, June 2.- The Bucharest correspondent of the Times draws a comparison between the present condition of the East and that which preceded the Russo-Turkish war, and says: "The situation appears exceedingly critical to those living on the scene of action. and, to insure safety against an outbreak among the elements in Turkey which cannot be influenced by any species of diplomacy, it is essential to place an adequate force immediately at Scutari and on the Greek frontier, where the inflammable elements are most excited. It will be a political miracle if another conflict does not break out before the circular notes, &c., have ceased floating aimlessly about in the Eastern atmosphere. The Russian officers are busytransforming every able-bodied Bulgarian into a soldier. Are they doing this to aid the safe transmission of protocols and identical notes?

des?" A Vienna despatch to the Times says: "The signs are becoming more numerous that the reasion in Albania is maxing progress. In the conference head at Soutari on the 20th uit, the arry which is nuverse to offensive action and party which is adverse to offensive action and ready to await the decision of the powers gained the upper hand, and it was decided to address another memorandum to the Consular coras at Scatari. The conference served to widen still more the breach already existing between the Mohammedan and Cattolic chief-tains. The chief difficulty is the money question. The contributions hid on the population are reasted and the form and and credit are exhausted. This is in itself an inducement for many to describe cause."

Buying Bonds that were Never Issued. M. Feuchtwanger, in January last, made an agreement with the Brooklyn Elevated Railroad Com-pany for the purchase of $10,000 of its bonds, paying at pany for the purchase of $10,000 of its bonds, paying at the time $0.000 as the purchase price. A Man who Wrote and Published Much Pertaining to the History of New York

The funeral of Dr. Edward Bailey O'Calaghan took place yesterday at the Cathedral before a large company, including committees from the Catholic Union and Historical So-ciety. Father Daly of the Church of St. Francis Xavier officiated, assisted by Fathers Donovan and Lavalle of the Cathedral, Pathers Farley and McDowell being masters of ceremonies. Father Walworth of Albany delivered a brief and warmly eulogistle discourse, and Cardinal McCloskey pronounced the final absolution. The pallbearers were Comptroller John Kelly.

windows on the Twenty-third street side all open, little that was spoken from the elatform could be heard except by those who occupied the front rows of seats. Then the attractions outside were numerous. A large number of manufacturing drugitsts, publishers of medical books, makers of all kinds of surgical instruments. &c., had established temporary places for the exhibition of goods, and as they were very inbreal in give ing away samples, nearly every physician who called on them went away with his arms full. Of circulars, price-lists, descriptive catalogues, and specimen copies of medical journals there was no end. The sidewalk was littered with them, the stairways leading up to the hall was covered with them, and in the hall itself one waded through them ankle deep. The physicians appeared to be all thoroughly interested in their work. The attractions of the city did not draw them away, and no one was heard to say a single word about the Chicago Convention.

The second day's general meeting was called to order by President Sayre at 10 o'clock. Soon after the opening a rather acrimonious discussion arose about the rejection of the naval delegates, because charges against them of unpreferentiates had been signed, and in the mean time wished the observation. The naval delegates demanded recognition at least until the charges had been summed frequilarly to the association. The naval delegates demanded recognition at least until the charges had been audied before the Judicial Committee of the sascolation. COL. AYDELOTTE'S TESTIMONY.

Denying Mrs. Polk's Accusations Against Him-An Unanswered Question. SNOW HILL, Md., June 2 .- Wm. J. Aydelotte's testimony was begun this morning. He denied ever taking any liberties with Mrs. Polk, except having once playfully tapped her Polk, except having once playfully tapped her earring, and said that all his visits to her house were of a purely business character. On one occasion she postled against him, and he thought it was mysterious. He said that on one of his visits she asked him to go up stairs with her. He thought it was a scheme to blackmail him, and left the house, but visited her several times afterward. When asked to explain what he meant when, after the above, he wrote to her husband that he esteemed her as a lady of pure and umblemished worth, he floundered, and the question remains unanswered. The Colonel's testimony was given in a highly dramatic way, and at times he would call on his God to bear him witness that his statements were true.
